Some people find that their learning style may be a blend of two or three styles, in this case read about the styles that apply to you in the explanation.

VARK Learning Styles Explanation

The VAK learning styles model suggests that most people can be divided into one of three preferred styles of learning. These three styles are as follows, (there is no right or wrong learning style)

Someone with a visual learning style has a preference for seen or observed things, including pictures, diagrams, demonstrations, displays, handouts, films, flipchart, etc. These people will use phrases such as “show me” , “let’s have a look at that” and will be best able to perform a new task after reading the instructions or watching someone else do it first. These are the people who will work from lists and written directions and instructions.

Someone with an auditory learning style has a preference for the transfer of information through listening: to the spoken word of self or others, of sounds and noises. These people will use phrases such as “tell me” , “let’s talk it over” and will be best able to perform a new task after listening to instructions from an expert. These are the people who are happy being given spoken instructions over the phone, and can remember all the words to songs they hear!

Someone with a kinesthetic learning style has a preference for physical experience; touching, feeling, holding, doing, practical hands-on experiences. These people will use phrases such as “Let me try”, “how do you feel?” and will be best able to perform a new task by going ahead and trying it out, learning as they go. These are the people who like to experiment, hands-on and never look at the instructions first!

People commonly have a main preferred learning style, but this will be part of a blend of all three. Some people have a very strong preference; other people have a more even mixture of two, or less commonly, three styles.

When you know your preferred learning style(s) you understand the type of learning that works best for you.

There is no right or wrong learning style. The point is that there are types of learning that are right for your own preferred learning style.
